
Benefits and how you can donate

Maple Point Middle School and Neshaminy High School, both in Middletown, are raising money for Middletown Police Officer Chris Jones' family through the Philadelphia Police and Fire Federal Credit Union.

Anyone interested in contributing should make checks payable in Jones' name to the Philadelphia Police and Fire Credit Union and mail to either Maple Point at 2250 Langhorne-Yardley Road, Neshaminy High at 2001 Old Lincoln Highway, or directly to the credit union at 901 Arch St. in Philadelphia.

Jones' 13-year-old daughter, Julianne, is a student at Maple Point and his 16-year-old son, Christopher, goes to Neshaminy High.

Following Jones' burial today, Philadelphia's Fraternal Order of Police will hold a fundraiser at its lodge at 13th and Spring Garden streets. All proceeds will go to the Jones family.

Another benefit is being organized for Feb. 20 at King's Caterers on New Falls Road in Middletown. Police are trying to gather door prizes and asking anyone interested in participating or donating to call 215-750-3866.
